

Photo Album Overview

Storyboard 1

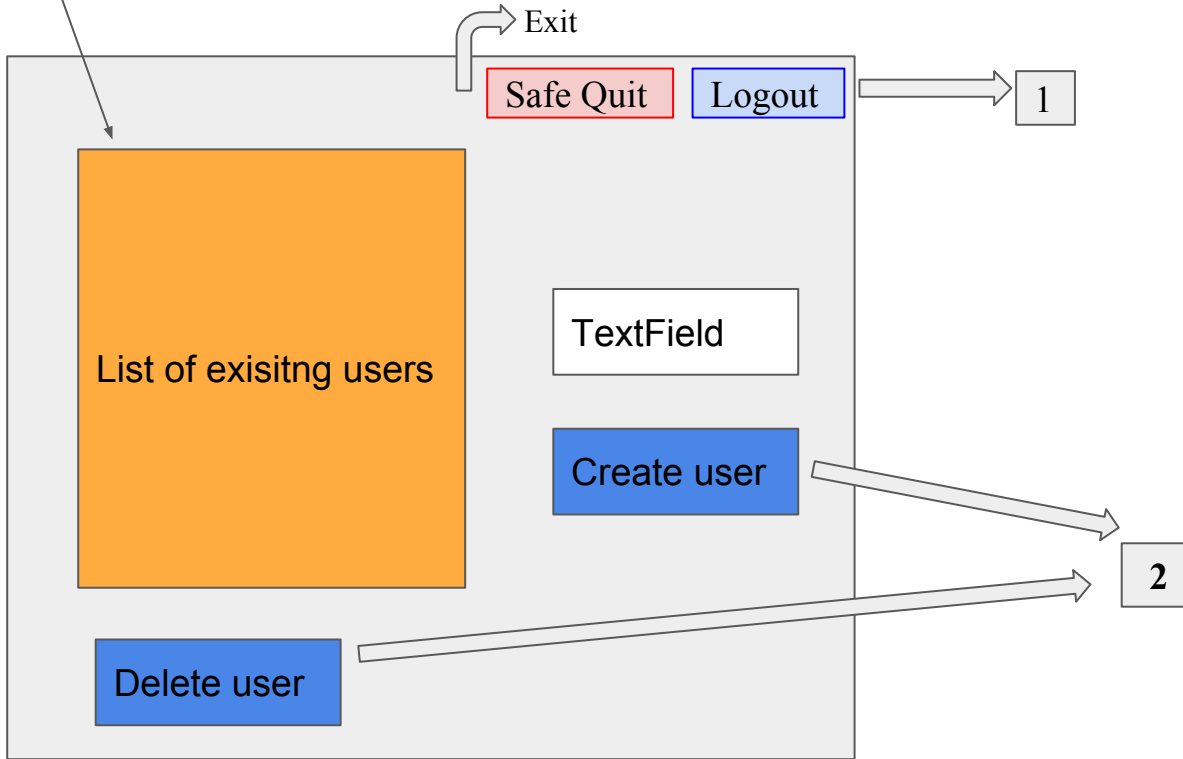

When the Photo Album Application is invoked the login screen pops up.

1. Welcome logo is displayed
2. User is prompted to log in
3. Stage transition is based on the type of user that logged in

Storyboard 2

Observable List

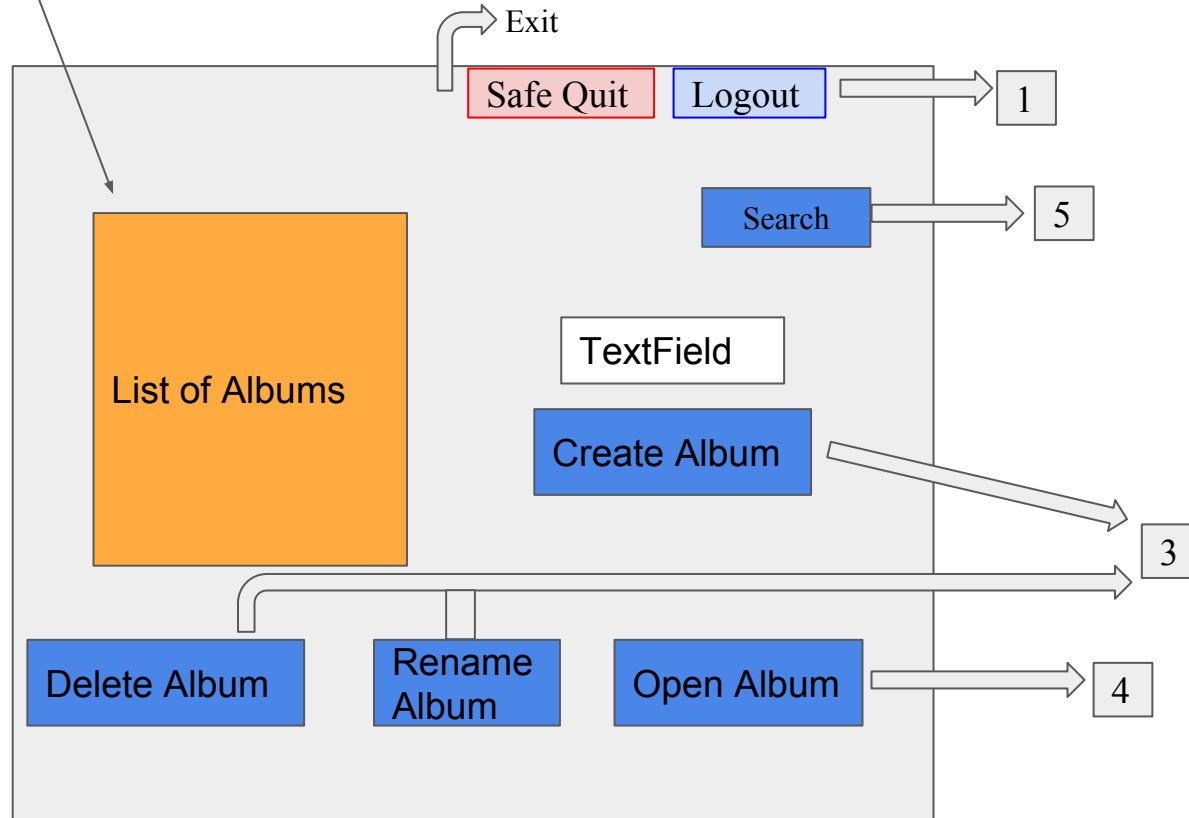

This is the Admin screen and has all the admin specified functions

1. The users are stored within an observable list

2. Create user will take the input within the text field and create a new user and add it to the observable list

Storyboard 3

Observable List

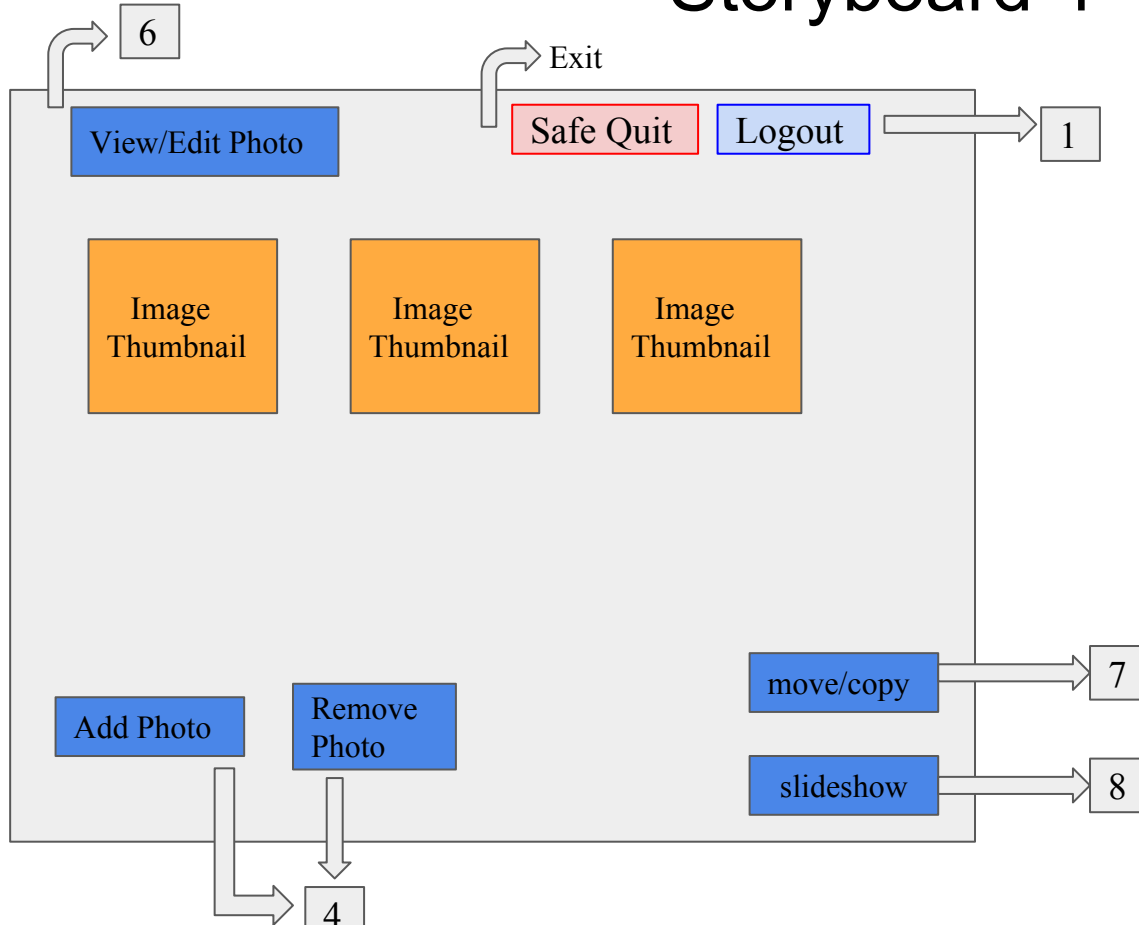

This is the User screen and has all the user specified functions.

1. Album is stored within an observable list

2. Create album/Rename album takes the input within the text field and creates/renames the album within the observable list

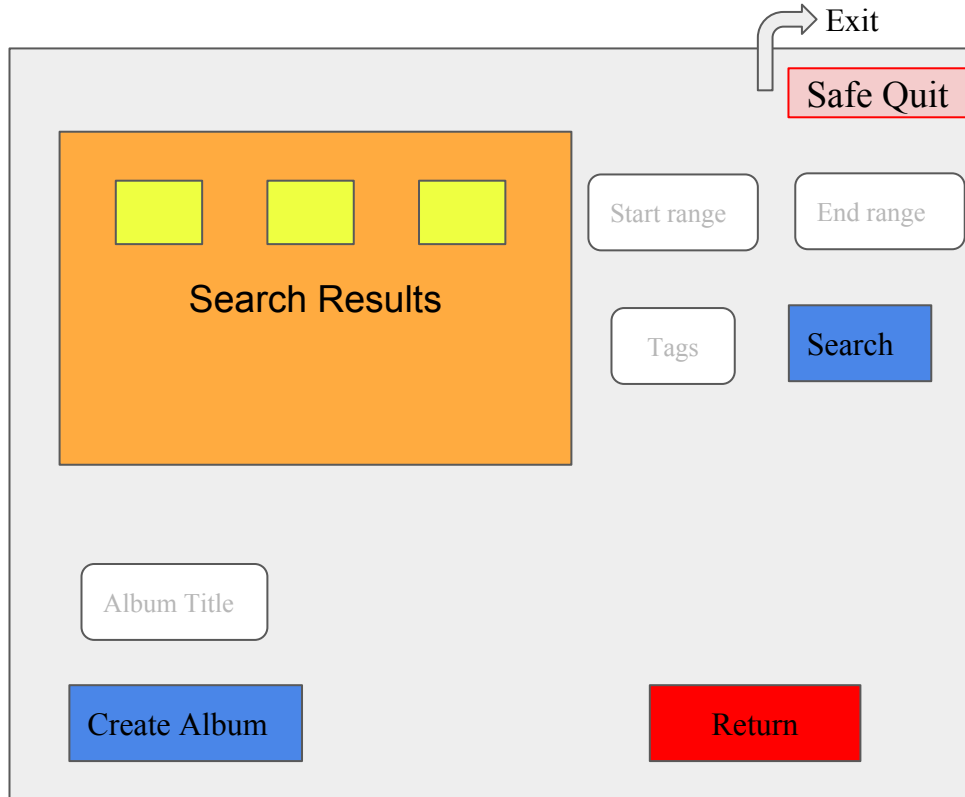

Storyboard 4

This is the Album Content Screen.

1. It contains thumbnails of all pictures in an album
2. This screen also is the main control for getting to any other screen that contains functions that can be applied to a photo in album

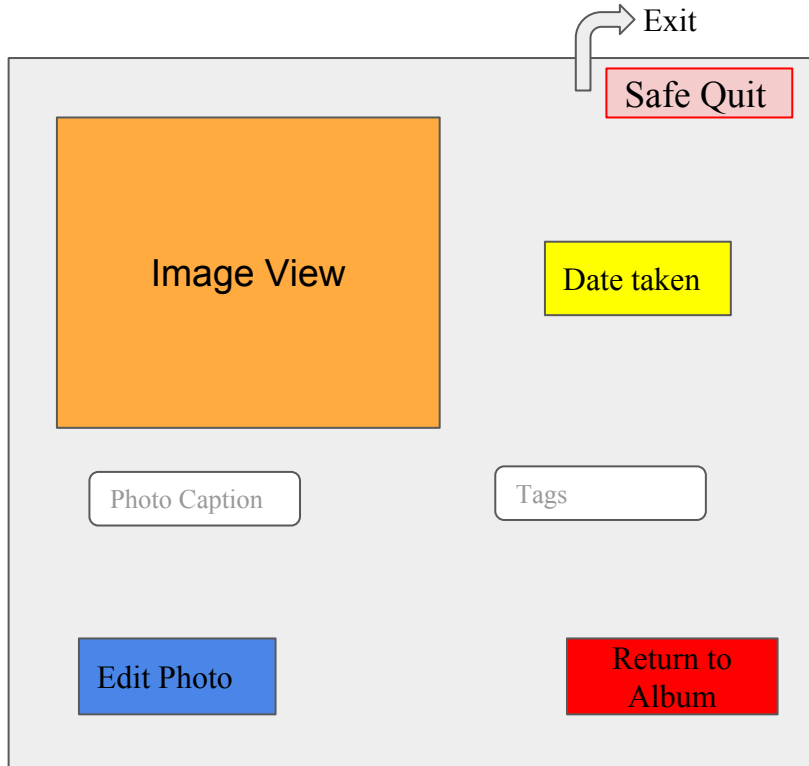

Storyboard 5

This is the Search screen where the user can search for a photo.

1. The first two text boxes take the date range and searches by date range
2. The second text box takes the tag type and searches by tag
3. Search results are displayed as thumbnails.
4. Album can be created from the results using the Create Album button with the Album title entered in the third text box

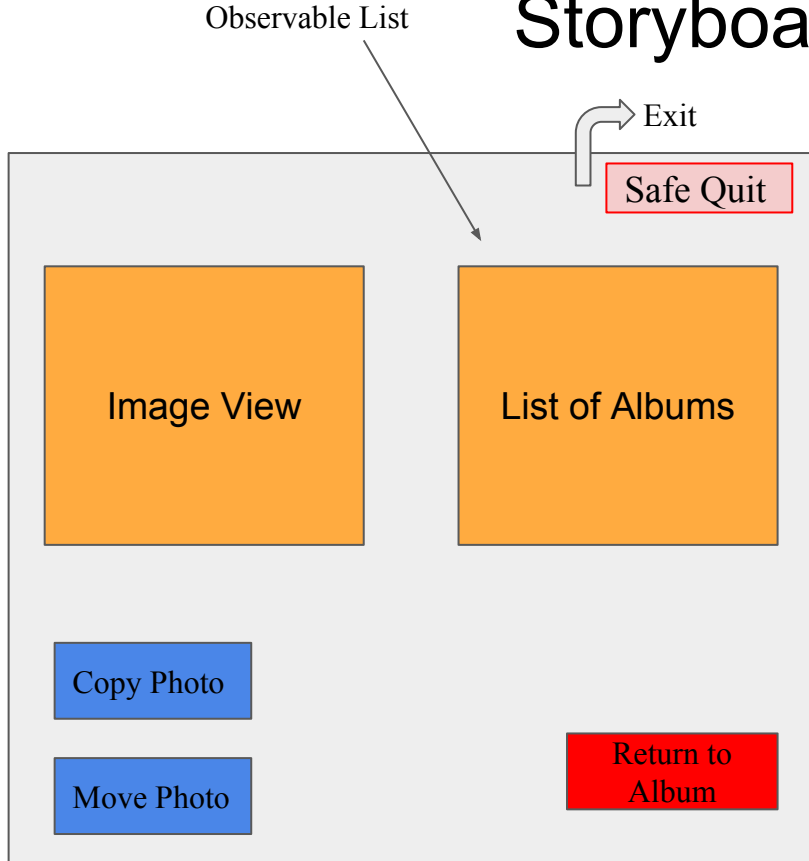

Storyboard 6

This is the Photo Content Screen.

1. The selected photo is shown within the Image View area
2. The date taken, the caption and the tags associated with the photo are also shown on this screen
3. The two text boxes can be used to edit the caption or the tags for the photo using the Edit Photo button

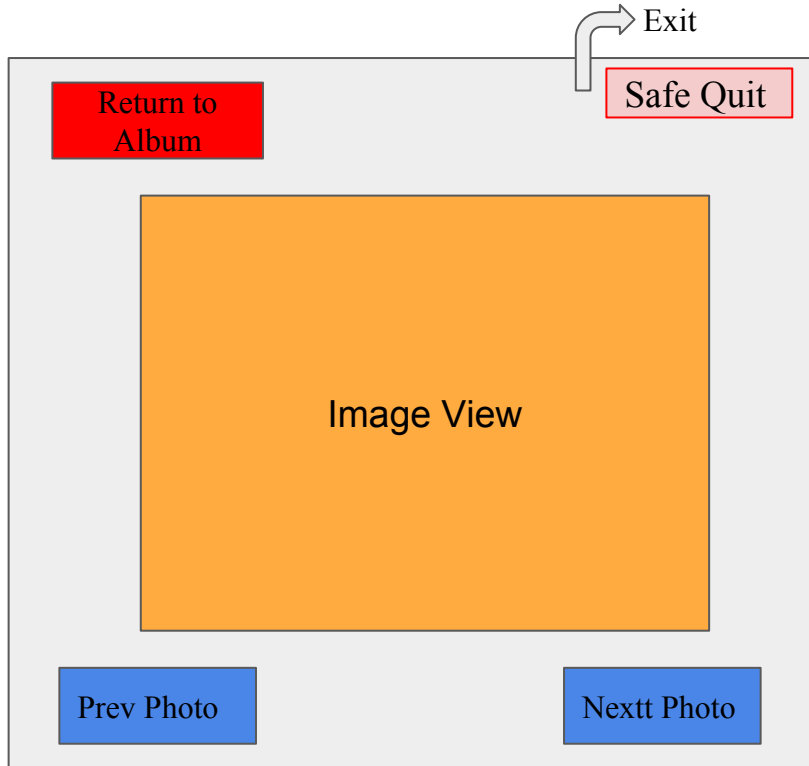

Storyboard 7

This is the Move/Copy Screen.

1. The selected image will be shown in the Image View area
2. The selected image can be moved or copied to another album from the album list

Storyboard

This is the Slideshow Screen

1. Current image is shown within the Image View area
2. Prev and Next button can be used to change the image being shown.